講演題目: Building Your Startup within 2.5 Hours

Have you ever imagined finding your own startup? Have you ever thought you could actually make your own company by finding the needs and wants from the market? Maybe you are able to find them from what you study at KIT. Likewise, your research in your laboratory helps you to think how to solve the social problems as well. So let's get together and practice how to find your own startup, and find your team members. You will be able to choose who you want to be like CEO, COO, CTO, CMO, CFO. And practice how to give a pitch to your investors to raise your fund to start your own business. It will be a fantastic workshop for you to learn how to build your own team and how to give an effective presentation. Let's provide global innovation by building your startup.
